DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6-19, 21-23, 25-30 and 40-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Caspari et al (US Patent 4,923,461) in view of Tiefenbrun et al (US Patent 6,331,182). The Caspari et al patent discloses a device for fixing a flexible element to a portion of tissue including structure 20 for retaining a flexible element; tube 104 to guide said flexible element and a drive unit 68 for urging the flexible element toward the distal end. Caspari et al does not teach a securing means as recited in claim 6 for advancing the flexible element with sufficient force. However, Tiefenbrun et al discloses a securing means for variably adjusting the force to a flexible element to secure two tissue portions. Figure 6D, discloses the securing means 56. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to provide Caspari et al with securing means as taught by Tiefenbrun et al and a wire suture to variably adjust the securing force of the flexible element.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 19 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 1-5 and 31-39 are allowable over the art of record.
